

STEPPIN STANZAS ARTISTS AWARDED SEED MONEY TO LAUNCH EVENT

Steppin Stanzas, a project fiscally sponsored by South Side Slopes Neighborhood Association, is a performance arts series intended to promote the use of Pittsburgh's public steps and celebrate the city's rich heritage, diversity, and distinctive geography. Steppin Stanzas events take place on city steps to offer a new way for residents to experience the landscape of their neighborhood. The launch event is in association with South Side Slopes Neighborhood Association's Annual Step Trek, where the Steppin Stanzas co-founders and resident artists Paola Corso and Andrew Edwards along with several guest artists present short works on South Side city steps throughout the event.
